Practice scoring worksheet

Record a complete practice attempt, check all three essay rubrics and choose one reading or writing skill to repair.

Current six-point essay rubrics. Weighted practice only: this is not an official composite or an AP 1-5 prediction.

Use a complete matching practice set and its scoring guide. Enter whole earned points; a blank is not zero. Name / date / practice source: _____

Input	Maximum	Worked example	Your score
Multiple choice	55	38
Poetry analysis	6	4
Prose fiction analysis	6	4
Literary argument	6	5

1. Check the worked example

MCQ $\div 55 \times 45 + (\text{poetry} + \text{prose fiction} + \text{literary argument}) \div 18 \times 55$

Multiple choice: $38 \div 55 \times 45 \approx 31.090909$

Three essays: $13 \div 18 \times 55 \approx 39.722222$

Sum at full precision $\approx 70.813131313 \rightarrow 70.8 / 100$ weighted practice points.

2. Calculate your practice result

Multiple choice: _____ $\div 55 \times 45 =$ _____

Three essays: _____ $\div 18 \times 55 =$ _____

Add without intermediate rounding: _____ Final total (one decimal): _____ / 100

Do not label this percentage as an AP 1-5 score. Self-scored responses and practice-form differences add uncertainty.

Error review and one-skill repair plan

Make the essay score explainable

- 1. Write each essay as thesis (0-1) + evidence/commentary (0-4) + sophistication (0-1). Enter only whole rubric points. A classroom percentage is not a rubric score.
- 2. For poetry or prose, underline the detail and circle the sentence explaining its effect. For literary argument, connect a precise moment in the selected work to your interpretation rather than retelling the plot.
- 3. For a missed MCQ, identify the passage evidence supporting the correct answer and the detail that defeats the tempting wrong answer. Test that reading skill on a fresh passage.

Essay	Thesis /1	Evidence + commentary /4	Sophistication /1	Total /6
Poetry
Prose fiction
Literary argument

Useful error labels: Missed detail / inference / narrator or speaker / structure / word meaning / thesis / commentary / sophistication

Repair, retest, compare

Choose one paragraph where commentary stops at summary. Rewrite the explanation, then compare it with the exact rubric. Which phrase now connects the evidence to your interpretation?

My specific repair: _____

Fresh question / retest date: _____

Evidence of improvement / remaining error: _____
